Ideal for students interested in becoming global business leaders, the course is modelled on Ivy League/ Oxbridge MBA programmes and formats such as 'Dragons' Den' and 'The Apprentice' - where real life entrepreneurs present their ideas to a board of expert investors and business people.

How the Competition Works

Groups who wish to join the Masters can register their interest and receive a set of guidelines. The guidelines detail tips for preparing students before arrival and the full brief is announced on arrival to the UK.

- Each group enters the competitions as a collective team.
- To determine the overall winner, teams have to compete in qualifying and semifinal rounds, top teams then compete in a grand final judged by a panel of business experts.
- There are other prizes available, Masters Best Presentation, Talent Show Winners, Best Brand and the popular Fair Play award, voted by group leaders and awarded to the school felt to best represent the values of the Masters programme.
